Kucinich Subcommittee to Investigate Ohio's FirstEnergy Corporation

Washington D.C. (March 3, 2010) – Chairman Dennis Kucinich (D-OH) today demanded documents related to FirstEnergy's promotion of "all-electric" homes and the discounted "all-electric" rate, as well as its subsequent termination of that discounted rate. The documents were requested as part of the Domestic Policy Subcommittee's investigation of the marketing practices of FirstEnergy.

Documents requested by the Subcommittee include:

Any and all documents in your possession, custody or control that relate or refer to:

1. The marketing, promotion or advertising of all-electric homes.
2. Representations about the all-electric rate or discount made to builders or potential builders of all-electric homes.
3. Other communications with builders about the all-electric rate or discount.
4. Representations about the all-electric rate or discount made to buyers or potential buyers of all-electric homes.
5. Other communications with buyers, owners or occupants of all-electric homes about the all-electric rate or discount.
6. Representations about the all-electric rate or discount made in any advertisement or promotional materials.
7. Communications about the all-electric rate or discount with any advertising company.
8. Training materials, manuals, guidelines, etc. for your employees relating in any way to how they should explain the all-electric rate or discount.
9. Communications with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio about the creation of an all-electric rate or discount.
10. Communications with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio about the continuation of an all-electric rate or discount.
11. Communications with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio about the discontinuation of the all-electric rate or discount.
12. The impact of the discontinuation of the all-electric rate or discount on the owners and or occupants of all-electric homes.
13. The impact of the discontinuation of the all-electric rate or discount on the revenues of FirstEnergy.

14. The impact of the discontinuation of the all-electric rate or discount on the profits of FirstEnergy.
